We are both motivated by 10,000 Degrees' impact on the students they serve. They really cracked the code on how to help students at every stage through their wraparound support. There are so many great results to lean into, and it's very exciting to be part of something that really works and makes a tangible impact.

10,000 Degrees is an inspirational organization. We hope that our support helps create local change, and inspires others to get involved—because even small efforts can contribute to bigger transformations in the community.

We support 10,000 Degrees because it changes people's trajectories by helping students early on. The approach is unique in that it focuses on students who might not fit the typical mold but still need support. Seeing the impact firsthand, it's clear that 10,000 Degrees provides crucial help where it's needed most.

“What makes 10,000 Degrees stand out is its comprehensive support model, impactful outcomes, and professional, modern approach. It feels great to be a part of a forward thinking organization that genuinely makes a difference in people's lives. The leadership and community involvement are also impressive.”

My journey with 10,000 Degrees began in high school when I joined the Summer Institute program at San Francisco University. As a newcomer from Brazil, I had little understanding of the complexities of the college admissions process. I assumed it was as simple as applying to a school and getting accepted based on grades. The 10,000 Degrees program provided the guidance I needed and opened my eyes to what the process truly entails. What sets 10,000 Degrees apart is its holistic approach—it's not just about scholarships. The organization offers comprehensive, ongoing support from high school through to a professional career, much like a family that supports you every step of the way, providing resources beyond just college preparation.

As I transitioned into my professional life, I continued to be involved with 10,000 Degrees, initially as a mentor and recently joined the Marin Advisory Board. This role allows me to contribute on a larger scale and deepen my involvement with the organization's work.

Supporting 10,000 Degrees is deeply rewarding because I've seen its effectiveness firsthand. Through events and alumni stories, I've witnessed how the organization changes lives. I feel a strong commitment to giving back and helping 10,000 Degrees continue its mission for generations to come.

10,000 Degrees Director of Career Success

Bradley University, 2006

What makes 10,000 Degrees unique is our deep investment in students' career journeys, and our understanding of how a college degree connects someone to not just a job, but a career with economic mobility. Our Career Success Program demonstrates how educational equity supports financial prosperity, leading individuals to secure meaningful work that can support their future personal and professional goals—something we all deserve, but many lack access to.

I'm immensely proud of the work that my colleagues and I do on the Career Success team. By developing a robust career development program, our holistic approach truly impacts our students and alumni. It always makes my day when a student shares that they have been selected for an internship or job—this is what it's all about—helping students launch their careers.

Our students are talented, curious, and driven, and it's a privilege to support them along their professional pathways. When I reflect on their potential as future leaders, it makes me hopeful for a more equitable and prosperous future for all.

“By engaging with our community, employers, and corporate partners, we're not only achieving our goals—we're creating supportive environments where our students can thrive.”

When we first learned about 10,000 Degrees, we were blown away by their legacy. Over the past 40+ years, they have helped more than 60,000 students graduate from college. The scale of their impact is immense, affecting not just students but their families, incomes, and overall well being. Education is critical to making these things possible. 10,000 Degrees provides opportunities that help level the playing field. Students still face a tremendous amount of challenges—they must succeed in school and launch their careers—but 10,000 Degrees gives them support they need in navigating these challenges.

I joined the Peninsula-South Bay Advisory Board because 10,000 Degrees is one of the most impactful nonprofits I've encountered. We're also strong believers in education, and know that there are pockets of Silicon Valley where students feel college is out of reach due to wealth disparities. 10,000 Degrees engages students at the local level by placing Fellows right on campus to help students apply for and secure funding, helping students to realize that college is accessible and possible for them.

We are excited to be a part of this effort to drive change and create opportunities for the students here in Silicon Valley that need it the most.

As refugees from Vietnam, my siblings and I all faced the challenge of navigating the educational system in America. Expanding educational opportunities for underserved students is important to me because I was a financial aid recipient during college. What sets 10,000 Degrees apart is its effectiveness in helping students achieve their educational goals, reflected in its strong statistics and successful outcomes. My experience highlights the importance of programs like 10,000 Degrees that provide guidance and support, making higher education accessible.

The program's sustainable model, especially with many alumni returning as Fellows to guide future students, demonstrates a commitment to long-term impact. When you donate to 10,000 Degrees, you directly fund scholarships, staff, and resources that empower students to pursue their college and career aspirations. When we help more students access higher education, many return to give back to their community.

Through my involvement, I hope to raise more awareness about 10,000 Degrees and encourage others to support this worthy organization. I believe its program enriches lives, fosters community, and provides essential support to those who need it most.

10,000 Degrees stands out for its strong management and the talent of the individuals involved. We have the resources and expertise, and everyone is deeply committed to our mission of supporting students and making a real difference.

Expanding educational opportunities is vital as it transforms lives, boosts economic mobility, breaks cycles of poverty, and sets up future generations for success. This is especially vital for the African American community, where opportunities can be limited.

Being part of this success story is exciting. Few people witness the real impact of their work as directly as we do. It is fulfilling to help students transition from high school to successful careers—and to share in their journey. I've learned a lot from listening to the inspiring stories of our Fellows and students, like Alejandra, our speaker at a recent Contra Costa event. Hearing of her road to success highlights how helping one student can benefit their entire family and community.

I feel good about making an impact through my work. My role allows me to show how education can foster change, and to raise funds and awareness for students who need support.

Chief Operating Officer, Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati

I first became involved with 10,000 Degrees after its 2018 merger with the Meritus College Fund, as I had volunteered for Meritus and served on its board. 10,000 Degrees has a proven track record and an efficient, scalable model that supports thousands of students, whether they start at a community college or 4-year institution.

10,000 Degrees approach aligns with my belief in higher education's power to transform lives. A college education enhances a graduate's employment opportunities, lifetime earnings, and overall mental health. But underserved students often lack access to these benefits due to a gap between their ambitions and the resources required to attain a college degree.

That's why supporting 10,000 Degrees is important to me. They bridge this gap so more students can graduate and secure rewarding careers and other benefits. And as a community member and employer in the Bay Area, I see the personal, civic, and professional value in helping individuals who might otherwise lack the opportunities to earn a degree and access broader employment options.

I feel honored and proud to contribute financially to 10,000 Degrees, having witnessed its positive impact.

Chris with his daughters. Chris' late wife, Jennifer, was also a strong supporter of 10,000 Degrees

“I hope that my support helps more students achieve their educational and career goals, improves our community, and encourages others to give back.”

Thank you to everyone in our ONE Amazing Community for making our annual fundraising gala such a memorable, and inspiring night!

Thanks to your incredible generosity, we raised over $1.1 MILLION for our students and programs!

The event was brimming with love, friendship, and community as more than 500 of us came together to support our students, alumni, and Fellows. We celebrated Kim Mazzuca's 25th anniversary as President & CEO of 10,000 Degrees, heard from our students and alumni in keynotes and videos, fell madly for alum Kaila Love's spoken word performance, and danced the night away at our silent disco.

Be sure to save the date for next year's

10,000 Degrees Alum & Peninsula-South Bay Advisory Board Member
Product Development Engineer, KLA
San Jose State University, M.S. 2024, B.S. 2019

I first got involved with 10,000 Degrees in my senior year of high school through their Summer Intensive Program, learning everything I needed to know about college. They supported me through my senior year with college applications, financial aid, and guidance once I was in college. Without 10,000 Degrees, I probably wouldn't have attended college.

Beyond prepping me for college, 10,000 Degrees fostered a supportive community. By networking with similar people of a similar mindset, we all realized that we could attend college and built a community of friends. This program takes a holistic approach, offering not just scholarships, but also mentoring, resources, and consistent check-ins.

Supporting 10,000 Degrees is important to me because they help first-generation, low-income students break the cycle of poverty through education. They expand educational opportunities to underserved students in often overlooked Bay Area communities, ensuring that no one gets left behind.

After graduating, I joined the Peninsula South Bay Advisory Board to give back and support the next generation. As a 10,000 Degrees alum with knowledge of the South Bay, I aim to provide unique insights that can help empower our youth to make a positive impact on the world.

Carlos with his family at his Master's graduation

Lorez Bailey

Generous Supporter & Donor Since 2023
10,000 Degrees Sonoma Advisory Board Member

I deeply value the work of 10,000 Degrees and its vital support for underserved and first-generation students. You can see the organization's impact through their evidence-based data and success rates. They are actively fulfilling the promise of their mission, and you can see the impact of that every day.

10,000 Degrees offers comprehensive support to students, from scholarships to financial aid management to helping them navigate the college system. Many students are overwhelmed by institutional processes on top of their studies and part-time jobs. Having a support network that also helps to remove those barriers is critical to their academic progress and success.

The unique strength of 10,000 Degrees lies in its extensive reach across Northern California, and its commitment to supporting students throughout their college journey and into their careers. This commitment is visible on their website, through their communications, and when you talk to their Fellows and students. It's clear when you see the love, passion, energy—and the appreciation and gratitude—by those helped by 10,000 Degrees—it's truly infectious.

As a donor, I feel confident that my dollars are not only making a real difference, but also supporting a profoundly impactful organization. I am proud to contribute to an organization that is so effective and is building a lasting legacy of change.

Looking ahead, I hope 10,000 Degrees continues to expand its services to new communities and remains sustainable. Giving to an organization that fosters multi-generational impact and transforms lives is incredibly rewarding, and I am committed to being part of that ongoing legacy.

10,000 Degrees Alum & College Access Fellow, Sonoma State University, 2023

College was challenging for me as an undocumented student dealing with imposter syndrome and academic struggles. However, the consistent support and encouragement from 10,000 Degrees and my Fellows were instrumental to my success and helped me develop a sense of belonging.

Now, as a Fellow at my former high school, I am using my experiences to support and inspire students regardless of their background who struggle with similar issues or lack of resources. I make it a point to be genuine and relatable by sharing my story, helping them feel seen and supported.

What really sets 10,000 Degrees apart is its strong sense of community and consistent support for students. We don't just offer resources—we're continuously present. I'm proud to be part of this program, to see students grow, and to witness their success stories—a reminder of the importance of this work.

Being a Fellow at 10,000 Degrees has given me a sense of purpose. I'm excited to continue supporting and advocating for students, and contributing to their success and growth. It's been an incredibly fulfilling journey, and motivates me to continue making an impact in students' lives.

10,000 Degrees Academic Success Volunteer

“The most rewarding part of volunteering has been seeing confidence bloom within my students as they approach new and challenging mathematics problems. It’s been a wonderful experience witnessing this growth - my students are no longer afraid to erase their work and try again.”
